

These are the classic, short Tanzania safari itineraries, combined with camping in small permanent tented camps in peaceful locations. Or you may select a lodge accommodation option and this is shown in the costings below. Also on the final page are some half and one day excursions.

The following parks/reserves are featured in the programmes costed below. The 3 days programme does not include Serengeti and the 5 days programme does not include Tarangire.

Although Lake Manyara National Park covers an area of only 318 sq. km, it has an impressive biological diversity that reflects the varied terrain. Large areas of groundwater forest with giant fig and mahogany trees alternate with acacia woodland and open grassland. The hippo pool is famous, as are the tree climbing lions, and many of the large mammals are also found here. Manyara is noted for its wealth of bird life and at times the lake is visited by many thousands of flamingos.

Ngorongoro Crater is a spectacular natural zoo with a resident population of over 20,000 animals. It is also one of the biggest calderas (collapsed volcanic craters) in the world with a diameter of about 18 km, and a depth of over 600 m. The approach road skirts the rim of the crater affording many breathtaking scenic views over the Crater floor. This is one of the few places to see Black Rhinoceros and you will be unlucky not to see all the large plains animals.

Serengeti National Park Simply teeming with game, the Serengeti is one of the largest and best game reserves in Africa, unequalled for its natural beauty. The Serengeti ecosystem is one of the oldest on earth. Early man himself made an appearance in Olduvai Gorge about two million years ago. It is the migration for which Serengeti is perhaps most famous, however. Over a million wildebeest and about 200,000 zebras flow south from the northern hills to the southern plains for the short rains every October and November, and then swirl west and north after the long rains in April, May and June. The Serengeti is also famous for the 'Big 5' but other common species found in the park all year round include eland, impala, waterbuck, baboon, monkey, warthog, topi and a rich selection of birdlife with over 400 species recorded.

Tarangire National Park is different from other parks in northern Tanzania with a wild character more reminiscent of reserves in southern Tanzania. The vegetation is denser than in Serengeti and includes acacia woodlands, riverine grasslands, and swamps. The principal feature is the Tarangire River, which during the dry season from July to November is an important water supply for the animals. Tarangire supports all the large mammals, but denser vegetation makes predators such as lion and leopard more difficult to see. Elephants in herds of 20-odd animals are relatively common and kudu, eland, oryx and gerenuk are found here. The birdlife is as interesting as in Lake Manyara and the Baobab tree is widespread.
