Days 2-5 – Northern Serengeti

Simply teeming with game, the Serengeti is one of the largest and greatest game reserves in Africa, unequalled in scale and diversity. It is amongst the oldest and most complex eco-systems on earth, and in its essential features has barely changed in the past hundred thousand years. A unique combination of diverse habitats, ranging from clay pans and wooded grasslands to the endless savannah plains for which the region is famous, enables it to support a wealth of game, including 60 large mammal and over 500 bird species.

The game-viewing is stunning all-year round in the Serengeti, whichever section of the park you happen to be in. The 'Big 5' are a constant fixture, but perhaps more significant, the Serengeti boasts the greatest concentration of plains game anywhere in the world, with an estimated two million wildebeest, half a million gazelle, and 250,000 zebra. Among the other species regularly seen are eland, impala, waterbuck, baboon, monkey, warthog and topi.

The Serengeti is of course most famous for the dramatic annual wildebeest migration and your accommodation is perfectly placed to witness this amazing spectacle between July and October.

The next four days are free for you to explore the Northern Serengeti to your heart's content. With a private guide and vehicle, you set the pace—you may like to break up the day with morning and afternoon game drives, or spend a full-day in the wild, stopping to enjoy a picnic lunch on the plains.
